

Merry Christmas
from
the Willises

Hannah (7) is a sweet and sensitive second grader who just wants to do the right thing (and is very hard on herself when she doesn't). She claims to like school. She also enjoys her after-school Spanish class and piano lessons (but isn't a big fan of practicing).

Lucy (4) loves pre-school and playing with her big sister. She is more inclined to test limits (e.g., of acceptable behavior) than Hannah is, but is a lot of fun to have around. She fancies herself a princess and knows she is beautiful. (Don't ever make the mistake of telling her she's "cute.")

Sophie (20 mos.) recently figured out how to extricate herself from the crib and has entered a destructive phase unlike any we've ever experienced. She enjoys climbing stuff and concocting new imaginative methods for escaping from sacrament meeting.

Crystal (c. 24), the brains of this organization, vowed to become more active in the PTA this year and has taken on putting together this year's student directory. (It should be done by June.) She is a very good mommy who volunteers in Hannah's and Lucy's classrooms and also coordinates a book group.

Tim (whose age his seminary students estimate at 41) loves working for Fannie Mae (think of us as Freddie Mac except with more market share and without the accounting scandals). A "volunteer" (Church euphemism for "unpaid," not "volunteer") seminary teacher, he teaches the Old Testament to 9th thru 12th graders from 6:00 until 6:50 A.M. on school days. If you catch him in the right mood he might even admit that he enjoys it.

We all wish you a joyous season.

Merry Christmas
from
the Willises

Hannah (7) is a sweet and sensitive second grader who just wants to do the right thing (and is very hard on herself when she doesn't). She claims to like school. She also enjoys her after-school Spanish class and piano lessons (but isn't a big fan of practicing).

Lucy (4) loves pre-school and playing with her big sister. She is more inclined to test limits (e.g., of acceptable behavior) than Hannah is, but is a lot of fun to have around. She fancies herself a princess and knows she is beautiful. (Don't ever make the mistake of telling her she's "cute.")

Sophie (20 mos.) recently figured out how to extricate herself from the crib and has entered a destructive phase unlike any we've ever experienced. She enjoys climbing stuff and concocting new imaginative methods for escaping from sacrament meeting.

Crystal (c. 24), the brains of this organization, vowed to become more active in the PTA this year and has taken on putting together this year's student directory. (It should be done by June.) She is a very good mommy who volunteers in Hannah's and Lucy's classrooms and also coordinates a book group.

Tim (whose age his seminary students estimate at 41) loves working for Fannie Mae (think of us as Freddie Mac except with more market share and without the accounting scandals). A "volunteer" (Church euphemism for "unpaid," not "volunteer") seminary teacher, he teaches the Old Testament to 9th thru 12th graders from 6:00 until 6:50 A.M. on school days. If you catch him in the right mood he might even admit that he enjoys it.

We all wish you a joyous season.